

Fresh Perspective timeline

I've lost track of how many times I've updated my website as a way of exploring new software, languages and digital trends. In retrospect, this version violated several UX rules — such as logo and navigation placement — but I did have a lot of fun animating it with Flash.

* Screenshots from this archive don't always render sites as they originally appeared. I include the image for date reference only.